

Finials

Finial - The finial is an architectural device, typically carved in stone and employed to decoratively emphasize the apex of a gable, or any of various distinctive ornaments at the top, end, or corner of a building or structure. A finial is much more than a decoration, it is also a way to weather proof and protect the apex of a tower, turret, cupola or gazebo.