STONE LEGENDS

Planters / Urns Legend

Throughout time...

Stone has been used in the creation of works of art that are as beautiful and emotionally moving as they are sturdy and everlasting.

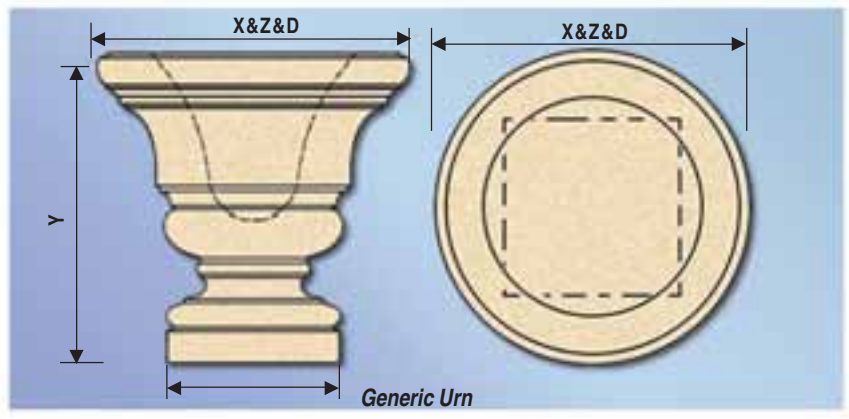

These works of art have inspired generations of artists and designers to create architecture and landscaping elements that enhance the visual experience.

Fountains Legend

In the 17th century France became the inspiration of architectural and landscape design. The vast building programs of Louis XIV included miles of symmetrically arranged gardens, which, like royal architecture of the period, were designed to give an impression of limitless grandeur. The grounds were regularly intersected by radiating alleys lined with trees or hedges and embellished with fountains, pavilions, and statuary.

Statuary / Monuments

Stonehenge was built in the Neolithic age some 5,000 years ago. There are thousands of stone monuments that were built for reasons unknown to us. Till today and probably for hundreds of years to come people will continue to admire.

STONE LEGENDS

A statue is a form of likeness sculpted, modeled, carved, or cast in material such as stone.

The Lion Prone statue (Unit ID 12966) is a great example of the artistry and skill involved in producing lifelike statuary.

See also Chapter 5, The Finishing Touch, for additional accents, statuary and gifts for interior applications.
